Carole Baraldi, MD

Dr. Carole Baraldi is currently medical director for Brighton Gardens Skilled Nursing Facility; palliative care and geriatric specialist for CareSource Home Health and Hospice; and an assistant professor in the Division of Geriatrics at the University of Utah School of Medicine. She received her medical degree from Johns Hopkins University and is currently board certified in internal medicine, geriatric medicine and hospice and palliative medicine. Dr. Baraldi has volunteered her time and expertise with Project HOPE and with the University of Utah Harvest Africa Project.

Jay Austin Clark, MD

Dr. Clark is a physician for the Radiation Center for Central Utah and is board certified in radiology and radiation oncology. He is a member of the American Society for Therapeutic Radiology and Oncology and the American College of Radiation Oncology. Dr. Clark is a Roentgen Resident/Fellow research award recipient and has coauthored several published articles.

Barry Drage, LCSW

Barry Drage is a social worker for Mountain View Hospital in Payson. He works closely with families, helping them understand and cope with grief. He also helps patients and families connect with medical and community resources and aids in the transition out of the hospital setting.

Norman L. Foster, MD

Dr. Foster and his colleagues are currently working on a study to determine the impact of a new palliative care program on the quality of life of patients and their families. The study is currently in progress and will be completed in the next few months. Dr. Foster is also a member of the American Society for Therapeutic Radiology and Oncology and the American College of Radiation Oncology.
